

Farewell, Mommy

I went from "My Mom doesn't know what she's talking about" to "let me call mom to help me figure it out" to "I wish I could call my mom" it hurts so bad no matter what we went through, you were the only mother I had. A thousand prayers won't bring you back, trust me, I've tried, a million tears, doesn't work either, I know because I've cried. Never in a million years did I think you'd leave so soon, no not like that, and nothing can take this pain away because I just want my mama back. I find comfort in knowing that our last words to each other were "I Love You" and God is giving your soul the type of comfort that nothing on earth could do. I don't think I'll ever get over this, I just wanna see your smile, and have one last conversation, even if only for a little while. My Queen, my superwoman, you made me strong, my hero, my heartbeat, my backbone, my guidance counselor, my coach, my maid, my teacher, my friend, my chef, my ATM, my preacher. Mommy, my heart will yearn for you, always and forever, I can't wait to see your beautiful face again, we'll be together, I send you off with love mommy, even if it stings, I'm happy, my angel on earth finally got her wings.

Love your FIRST BORN, Shay
