Obituary

 Ingeborg Jackson, affectionately known to all as Oma, brought an unparalleled energy into the lives of everyone she met. Born on December 5, 1952, in Martinlamitz, Germany, to Franz and Maria Lindner, Inge was the sixth of eleven children. From an early age, her compassionate spirit shined brightly; caring for and helping others was simply inherent to her beautiful nature.

On March 21, 1998, after a whirlwind courtship of just 3 weeks, Inge found her soulmate and forever dance partner in Henry Jackson Jr. For the next 27 years and four months, they built a beautiful life together, loving and supporting each other through it all. Oma's heart and care for others, extended so warmly to motherhood. She deeply cherished her two daughters, Ramona and Crystal, and lovingly embraced her bonus children: Shanae, Henry III, Harrell, Mia and Roselyn.

Oma was truly larger than life - an outgoing, fun-loving woman whose radiant personality could effortlessly fill any room with joy. She absolutely adored music, dancing, and laughter, with ABBA and Pentatonix among her favorite bands that always got her moving. Her beautiful smile and wonderful sense of humor were simply infectious, brightening countless days. Inge found immense joy in nature, from the simple pleasure of picking berries as a child to tending her garden, nurturing her many flowers and plants, and watching and feeding the birds as an adult. Her connection to the natural world was a true extension of her loving heart.

Her hands, so gifted and generous, prepared some of the most delicious meals, a testament to her extraordinary gift of cooking. With a big heart that loved fiercely and without bounds, Inge will forever be remembered as a strong, incredibly kind, and truly generous soul. Oma's spirit was brimming with pure love, especially for her grandchildren and great-grandchildren, who brought her immense delight and pride. We can still hear the special way she would say each of our names, a sound that will resonate in our hearts forever, a sweet echo of her enduring presence.

Ingeborg leaves behind a profound legacy of love that will endure always, a testament to the beautiful life she lived. She is survived by her devoted husband, Henry Jackson Jr; her loving daughters, Ramona and Crystal; bonus children, Shanae (Orlando), Henry, Harrell (Kelly), Mia (Jason) and Roselyn. Her memory will be cherished by her grandchildren: Jonathan, Marcus (Raygan), Jordan, Cierra (Michael), Jadon, Malia, Bryce, Arianna, Aalivia, Ahnysia, Rylee, Trey, Jaxon, Maso, and Caden; and her great-grandchildren, Isla, Siani and Shiloh. She also leaves behind her dear sisters, Brigitte (Dave), Liesbeth (Wendell), Gerlinde, and Gabi (Hartmund); her brothers, Heini and Horst; a host of deeply loved nieces and nephews; and a wide community of friends and colleagues who became an extension of her cherished family.

Inge was preceded in death by her siblings, Else, Otto, Gerda, and Jutta, her beloved grandsons, Orlando II and Harrell Jr., son-in-law, Frank Pagan and bonus sister, Raquel Blyden, whose memories she held close to her heart.

Oma's spirit, full of love, passion and laughter, will forever live on in the hearts of all who were blessed to know her. She truly made the world a brighter place. Oma Ruhe in Frieden.
